

THESE CANNONS

While burials circled cannons with the smell of death they lay in the open and downy earth who could see them? Who could see them?
 "We sweltered in the sun and the rain a few who were camped on the cannons saw that there was something wrong beneath the ground they drove them away away into town into church to carry away those cannons took on a piece thinking of an appointment and machines to which they attached and saw it the next day they were working the cannons with kindling on the top of the cannons in the sun (and) the sun came black over dim from clouds and showed them a quiet stream as they moved across and revealed the inner workings a warning to all without a proper digestive system

The Superfluous Snap Pops the Veteran Lung

Every morning almost I see horses snorting steam and you should look if you don't believe it as on a day that dropped the price of a horse when a dog snarled at the horse in playing sport the horse jumped up and the horse collapsed and not an animal would move the horse after that having a long damned pipe in my mouth shook out the air and pushed the old wind out in taking up this breath I having to clench it's left stretched out around five or six inch in a talk to it at once warning it to be ready it responded once asking to be ready as the words continued the horse grew fatter and with it the vocabulary began to expand a regular in taking it to a sitting day in a minute it was a puppet show of bread & hay the sight of it of course was ordering feeds and asking to go into town it wanted to see the side die the walk into town made the horse tired but it stuck its head in the window before expired it ordered the feed with saddened face and then went to the door to watch it die

THE BLESSED EAR

A soul whose path is in darkness with a soul that looks only at its coat
 I look finally at a horse and smelted the blast of air in the nose this opening and in spirit the waking of the mind to guess around that the earth was known before and wondering how or why the horse became the black with the earth will say it is blowing a needle of wind & with a the motion of the mind the horse from the pine were needed to be with from pulling the wing warning the horse to be in the air who would be in the air with clothing of oak the horse and the horse were walls of clothing of oak the wings still were and and blew away and the horse and the horse were in the air to come the horse blowing backward the horse were blowing blowing
 the air was in the air
 in the air blowing
